Profile

Here's the best excuse for that scenic Staten Island ferry ride you intended to take this summer: This sound-art project, afloat for the past two weekends and broadcasting live (via WSIA 88.9 FM), wraps up Sunday after a final three-day run. They've featured music from Brian Eno and John Cage, the soundtrack from 2001: A Space Odyssey, and a healthy sampling of local duo neuroTransmitter's highly experimental "sound works." And like radio itself, the trip is free. — Rachel Wolff
